BUYER'S CONSOLIDATION

Buyer's consolidation shipment (also simply known as freight consolidation) is a method of shipping cargo you may consider when shipping two or more shipments from different suppliers in the same country.

To use shipping terminology, it will involve consolidating two or more LCL (Less than Container Load) shipments into one FCL (Full Container Load) shipment.

Organizing LCL shipments is relatively easy but sending multiple LCL shipments to the same destination can be unnecessarily costly.

Advantage of Buyer's Consolidation

Cost Saving

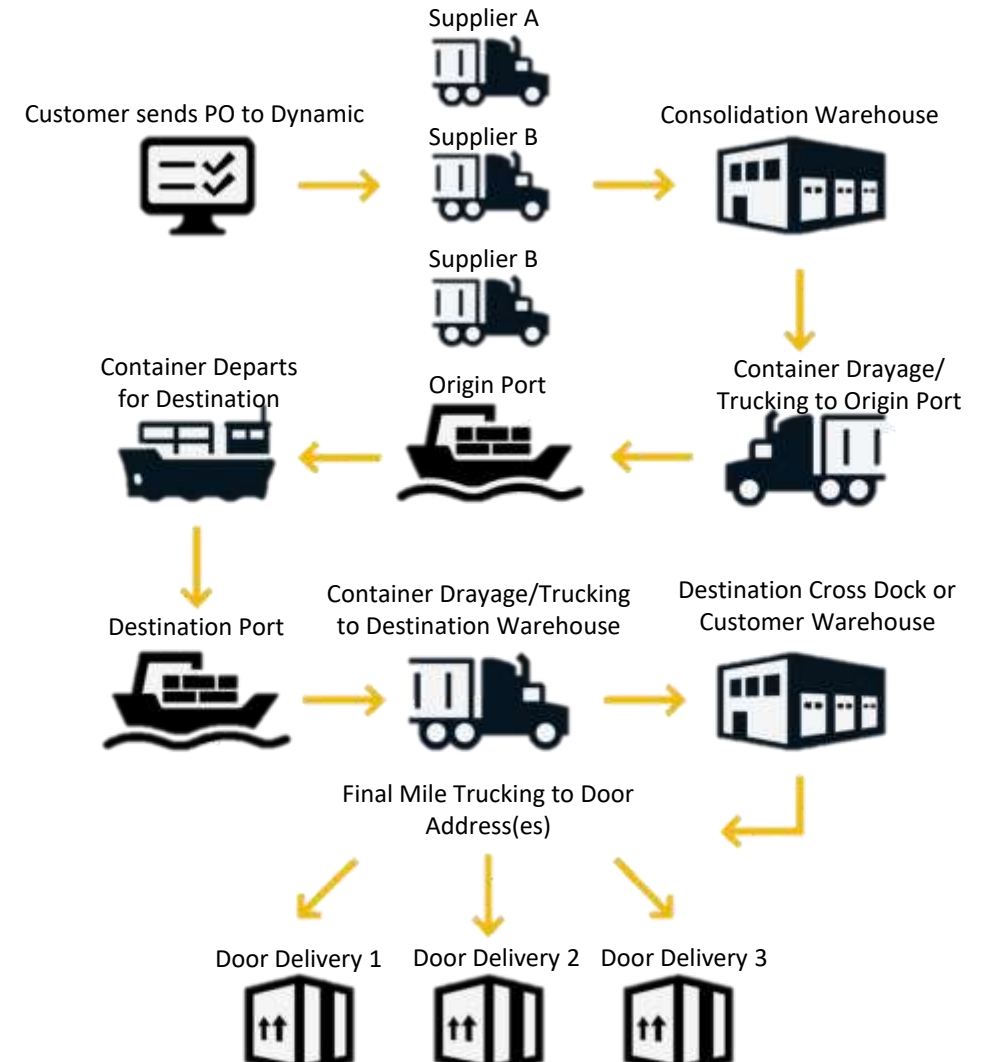

Track one shipment

Reduced risk of damage

More reliable shipments

Reduced impact on the environment

Our chartering services encompass full-service ship chartering and brokerage for heavy lift cargoes, project cargoes, bulk commodities, and airfreight, with customized terms to safeguard clients' interests. Additional support includes method statements, route surveys with risk assessments, terrain analysis, journey management plans, execution logistics, and comprehensive post-project analysis.

Transformers Logistics Management

DWWLG successfully managed the time-sensitive export of transformer project cargo, each weighing 37 tons, as break bulk. The project involved seamless coordination of logistics, including loading, lashing, bracing, transportation from the customer's warehouse to the port, and swift customs clearance completed within hours. The transformers were meticulously secured throughout the journey, ensuring safe and timely delivery to their destination. This achievement showcased the company's expertise in handling complex shipments and its commitment to precision and customer satisfaction in project cargo management.

BRT Buses Management

DWWLG successfully transported 219 Hybrid BRT buses, comprising 154 twelve-meter and 65 eighteen-meter buses, from Karachi Port to Chamkani Depot, Peshawar. The operation featured comprehensive logistics handling with secure loading, unloading, tarpaulin use, and proper lashing, along with advanced tracking for real-time traceability. DWWLG ensured timely maintenance, optimal routing, and security through escort vehicles throughout the journey, contributing significantly to urban public transport enhancement and reduced city traffic congestion.
